

Even when it's not all green grass and blue skies, the environment still matters. . . right down to your bottom line.

When skies become cloudy and waters turn rough, you have choices to make.

With 80 years of essential expertise, Nalco helps you develop and implement decisions that you are proud to share with your Board — and your children.

A horizontal graphic showing a splash of water with ripples and droplets, set against a white background.

Essential Expertise for Water, Energy and Air.SM

Tough economic times require difficult decisions, but choosing the right water, energy and air management partner isn't one of them. Nalco Company leads the industry in creating value for customers through differentiated services and unparalleled technologies that save water and energy, enhance production and improve air quality while reducing total costs of operation.

www.nalco.com