

Clean, available water is the most important resource for both human and economic development.

Working together, Nalco and Dow save four billion liters of water a year at Dow's plant in Freeport, Texas.

That's enough water to sustain the population of Freeport for 3 years or for the daily use of more than 14.4 million people.*

Four Billion Liters.

www.nalco.com/3dtrasar
for more information.

Dow's commitment to addressing the global water crisis includes game-changing technologies, partnerships in strategic regions, and collaboration with industry leaders like Nalco to reduce its environmental footprint.

*Based on average daily water use estimated by the American Water Works Association.